Boston Defeats Twins, 5 to 3, Wins A. L. Pennant

ANGELS KNOCK DETROIT OUT OF TIE, WIN 8 TO 5

From the Tribune Wire Services

BOSTON, Mass. — A city hungry for a baseball pennant for 21 years exploded with jubilation Sunday when the Boston Red Sox defeated the Minnesota Twins.

Nobody cared that the Detroit Tigers were still alive when Rico Petrocelli reached up and grabbed a soft pop fly hit by Rich Rollins for the final out left to Minnesota this season. Later, of course, the Tigers made it official by losing the second game of their doubleheader with California and finishing in a tie for second place with the Twins.

Boston cared only that the Red Sox, after 162 games, somehow had risen from ninth place to the top of the American League in a long, often tense, season.

The Red Sox now will face the St. Louis Cardinals, easy winners of the National League race, in the World Series starting Wednesday at Boston. St. Louis defeated Boston four games to three in 1946, when the Red Sox last won a pennant.

"It's the greatest day of my life," exulted Thomas A. Yawkey, the lumber millionaire who has owned the Red Sox for 35 years. "They went from the bottom to the top, and I'm proud of these fellows."

"It's a thrill all right," said Elston Howard, who played on nine pennant-winners with the New York Yankees before they traded him to the Red Sox two months ago at the age of 38. "I played on a lot of wonderful Yankee teams, with Mickey (Mantle) and Whitey (Ford) and the guys. But this is a great team, and it makes me feel a lot better about the way things turned out."

The "way things turned out" was like this: The Red Sox rallied to beat Minnesota, 5 to 3, and then the biggest throng of the season in Fenway Park broke loose as though the British were coming.

Carl Yastrzemski, the hitting hero of Beantown, wandered through the chaotic scene in the Red Sox clubhouse, smoking a long cigar and politely answering questions about his greatest season—which he finished with a batting average of .326 with 121 runs batted in and 44 home runs.

"It's the most satisfying day of my life," he said.

The Minnesota clubhouse was at the other end of the ball park — and at the other end of the decibel scale.

"We gave it our best shot today," said Cal Ermer, the Twins manager. "It just wasn't good enough."

Calvin Griffith, Twins president, wore a brown suit and a frown.

"There'll be some changes made for next year," Griffith said.

"We'll have to shore up our catching, get some relief pitching help and . . ."

Griffith was unhappy with the play of shortstop Zoilo Versalles, especially in the final two-game set here.

"Versalles let us down this year, but, in the mood, he can be the greatest," said Griffith.

A week ago, Griffith said he wouldn't trade Zoilo.

Would he consider trading him now?

"I'm not going to say that right now," said Griffith.

But catcher Earl Battey is certain to be gone by next year, and pitcher Jim Grant will be granted his request to be traded.

China Says Civil Strife to Continue

By DAVID OANCIA

PEKING, China — A tumultuous and colorful celebration honoring Chairman Mao Tse-tung, architect of the Chinese revolution, along with a sober notice that the struggle associated with cultural revolution will continue during the coming year, highlighted National Day festivities Sunday marking the 18th anniversary of Communist rule in this vast and populous land.

As 500,000 troops, peasants, workers, students and Red Guards paraded westward along the Boulevard of Eternal Peace past the Gate of Heavenly Peace — where Mao, other top Chinese leaders and foreign visitors reviewed them — copies of newspapers carrying a major editorial charting the course for the future were being delivered.

"WE MUST realize that in the coming year the class struggle will still be very acute and complicated and we shall still have to advance in the teeth of great storms and waves of class struggle," said the joint editorial of the country's three major papers — the People's Daily, Red Flag and Liberation Army Daily.

"The handful of bad persons who attempt to shake, from the right or the extreme (left) the proletarian headquarters of the party's Central Committee headed by Chairman Mao, and who secretly sow dissensions and smear people by rumors and slanders, and the counter-

Bar-Stool Fans of Twins Take Pennant Loss Well

By BARRY ROHAN
Minneapolis Tribune Staff Writer

Minnesota Twins fans, an occasional bar-stool student of the game notwithstanding, appeared to take the loss of the American League pennant Sunday afternoon like champions.

About 600 enthusiastic fans greeted the Twins at the Twin Cities International Airport last night. As they cheered and whistled, some of them displayed makeshift signs which said "We Love You Twins," and "Go Get 'Em Next Year."

"You're the greatest fans in the world," said Cal Ermer, Twins manager, after he alighted from the chartered plane about 8:45 p.m. "I wish we could have brought the championship back to you, but next year we will."

What pessimism, recrimination and optimistic philosophizing passed among the radio and television audience at large after the 5 to 3 defeat at the hands of the Boston Red Sox are not known.

But an informal survey of about 15 patrons watching the game on TV at a Minneapolis tavern indicated that the unofficial posture of the fan was humility, a stiff upper lip and eyes fixed on next year.

"THERE IS nothing to be disappointed about," said one patron of The Bubble Bar, 818 Portland Av., "The Twins played good ball all year. If at the end they had played different people and in their own ball park, things might've been different. You can't give up on that team."

He spoke quietly and confidently but, like several other patrons, with a certain humility. He asked that his name be excluded from his commentary so that people reading it might not misunderstand: "I'm not an expert or anything like that. I just like to watch the game—you know?"

As fans alternated between hope and despair through nine innings of play, there

Indonesians Loot China Embassy

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Nearly 1,000 Indonesian youths smashed their way into the Chinese Embassy here Sunday, beat up several diplomats, burned papers, books and flags and ravaged the building.

Indonesian troops took over the embassy two hours after the assault began, boarded up the outer gate, lowered the Chinese flag and hoisted the red and white Indonesian banner.

It was the second anniversary of an attempt launched by the pro-Peking Indonesian Communist party to seize control of the country.

THE BLITZ attack on the embassy began at dawn. Guards were swept aside by the screaming youths using a truck as a battering ram.

An army officer said several shots were fired by the besieged Chinese. Unconfirmed reports said at least one youth was wounded.

Another heavy truck was used to smash the embassy's main door. The reinforced door splintered under the impact, and part of the building collapsed.

The youths used scaling ladders to reach the second story, where they broke in through windows. Troops made no attempt to stop them. Several were seen climbing the ladders with the youths, rifles slung across their backs.

PAPERS, books, flags and photographs were carried outside and burned. Six of the 12 Chinese in the embassy were hospitalized after being beaten.

The youths, exhausted after the onslaught, left when troop reinforcements arrived. Security police carried away what papers were left unburned.

The attack came as a surprise here. There was fear it would mean serious trouble for the three Indonesian diplomats still in Peking.

HAROLD PHILBY
Russian spy

Russian Spy Nearly Became Top British Agent, Reports Say

LONDON, England — (Reuters) — Two British newspapers Sunday told of an "unmatched success story in espionage" — a Russian agent who nearly became chief of British intelligence.

The Observer and Sunday Times said British-born Harold (Kim) Philby, now 56 and living in Moscow, was assigned by the Russians in 1934 to infiltrate British intelligence.

The Sunday Times said that by 1941 Philby penetrated the Secret Service and by 1944 was heading the British anti-Russian intelligence operation.

THE OBSERVER said he was sent to Washington, D.C., in 1949 to be liaison man with the newly formed Central Intelligence Agency (CIA), the FBI and other American agencies—and the most important information went through him.

The end finally came in 1961 when a high Russian intelligence officer defected to the West and London learned the truth about Philby.

Both newspaper reports followed a two-week visit in Moscow by Philby's eldest son, John, 24. He said he delivered a letter from the Sunday Times to his father, who now works for a Moscow publishing house.

Young Philby said in a radio interview that his father was not co-operating with the newspapers in publishing accounts of his career.

PHILBY FLED to Russia in 1963 from Beirut, where he was working for the Observer and also, according to that paper, for British intelligence.

He left the Secret Service in 1951 forced out by the backwash of the defection of British diplomats Guy Burgess and Donald Maclean.

Philby's closest brush with discovery came when he tipped off the two Soviet spies that their activities had been uncovered. British atomic spy Maclean and agent Burgess were able to flee to the Soviet Union because of Philby's warning.

Philby immediately came under suspicion from his

4 Sioux Falls Children Die in Home Fire

SIOUX FALLS, S.D.—Four children ranging in age from 4 months to 7 years died as fire swept through their Sioux Falls home late Saturday.

The three girls and one boy were the children of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Kelly. Kelly, a truck driver, was home with the children while his wife, Carole, worked in a nursing home. Kelly said he was awakened by smoke and flames just before midnight.

He ran to a neighbor's home, but they had no telephone, so he continued to another home to summon firemen. He tried to re-enter his home, but it was engulfed by flames.

The victims were Valerie Jane, 7; Rebecca Lynn, 5; Charles J. Jr., 2, and Michelle Robin, four months. Minnehaha County Coroner George Boon said the children died of asphyxiation.

Investigating officials said the fire apparently started in the living room area on the first floor. Kelly, 27, was sleeping downstairs when the fire started. The two older children were asleep in an upstairs bedroom. The two younger children shared a downstairs bedroom.

Kelly was hospitalized for shock and burns on the hands and face. He was in good condition Sunday.

The Kellys have no other children. Yesterday was their eighth wedding anniversary.

3 Russ Leaders Visit Kiev to Review Troops

KIEV, U.S.S.R. — (AP) — Premier Alexei N. Kosygin arrived here Sunday to join the other members of the ruling Soviet triumvirate in reviewing troops that took part in the largest Russian war maneuvers in recent years.

The two other leaders, Leonid I. Brezhnev, general secretary of the Soviet Communist party, and President Nikolai V. Podgorny arrived Saturday.

W. E. Proffitt, Twins Doctor, Is Dead at 52

Dr. William E. Proffitt Jr., 52, Minnesota Twins team physician for the past seven years, died unexpectedly in his sleep at his Lake Vermillion cottage near Cook, Minn., Saturday night.

Dr. Proffitt

Dr. Proffitt and his wife, Deborah, had gone to the lake home for the weekend. He had spent about 10 days in the hospital six weeks ago for treatment of a virus, but members of his family said they believed him to be in good health.

Dr. Proffitt had practiced medicine in Minneapolis for more than 30 years. He was graduated from the University of Minnesota Medical School in 1939.

China, India Troops Suffer Casualties in Frontier Duel

NEW DELHI, India — (AP) — Chinese and Indian forces on the Tibet-Sikkim border exchanged fire for six hours Sunday and both sides suffered casualties, the Indian Defense Ministry said.

Firing broke out yesterday morning as the Chinese opened fire "without any provocation," the ministry said. It claimed the Chinese used recoilless rifles and mortars.

THE INDIANS returned the fire and barrages continued until fog halted the firing in the late afternoon.

The announcement gave no figures on casualties.

The firing was said to have taken place at Cho La, 3½ miles northwest of Nathu La, where Indians and Chinese artillery dueled for four days in mid-September.

The Chinese Communists, in a broadcast monitored in Tokyo, Japan, claimed that Indian troops had attacked Chinese frontier guards and that Communist soldiers were killed or wounded, but did not say how many.

QUOTING A dispatch from Lhasa, the capital of Chinese-held Tibet, a Peking broadcast claimed eight Indian soldiers had entered Chinese territory and "carried out provocations against the Chinese frontier guards on duty.

"Later, under cover of heavy artillery fire, over 50 Indian aggressor troops launched an attack on the Chinese frontier guards, killing or wounding Chinese soldiers.

"The Chinese frontier guards have been forced to fight back in self-defense."

Woman Found Shot to Death on St. Paul Street

A woman was shot to death shortly before 2 a.m. Sunday near the Town and Country Club in St. Paul.

Police said greenskeepers heard shots at 1:53 a.m. from the corner of the golf course at Otis Av. and Pelham Blvd.

The men told police they found the dead woman on the boulevard and heard a car speed away.

Police said the woman was shot in the back of the head and body, apparently with a 22-caliber automatic pistol.

Police said the woman's body was badly beaten.

The woman wore a blouse, underpants, a nightgown and coat. There were no identification papers on the body. Police said she apparently died instantly from the first shot to the head.

Police said copies of the woman's fingerprints have been sent to Washington, D.C. A police spokesman said the woman was "between 20 and 30." He said she was apparently not an area resident.

There are no suspects, police said.
