DICK CULLUM

LAFAYETTE, IND.—AFTER HE has left his office and Lawhile on the way home or to a speaking engagement or the airport or wherever, President Fred Hovde of Purdue drops in on football practice.

He was there Thursday for the last extended practice before the Purdue-Notre Dame game in Ross-Ade Stadium today.

It was in order for a visitor to congratulate him on receiving the Gold Medal Award from the National Football Foundation, thus joining company with Presidents Eisenhower, Hoover and Kennedy, Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Justice Byron (Whizzer) White and less than a handful of other distinguished people.

"Football has been good to me," President Hovde said.

And President Hovde has been good for football," coach Jack Mollenkopf added.

Hovde asked about several injured players.

"They'll all play," the coach said, "excepting, of course, Mike Engelbrecht." Engelbrecht, who would have started at quarterback, is lost for the season with a circulatory ailment in his arm.

"Then how will Mike Phipps handle the mob," the president asked.

Phipps is a sophomore starting his second game.

"He's a cool kid," Mollenkopf answered. "I think he will be a good quarterback."

PHIPPS SHOWS STUFF

JUST THEN PHIPPS DELIVERED a long pass to Jim Beirne.

"Look at that," said the coach. "It took Phipps a while to learn how to lead Beirne, not realizing how fast he is, but now he's getting the ball out there and Beirne is running under it."

"How do you plan to use Keyes?" the president asked. Leroy Keyes is one of this season's best players. He was a two-way back last year, emphasizing defense. This year he is a two-way back emphasizing attack.

Mollenkopf said, "I'll use him mainly on offense. In certain situations, I may have him cover Jim Seymour on passes but there's a limit to how much work one man can handle in such a hard game."

He was asked about the big, rangy defensive unit against which Phipps was passing.

"Oh, they're mostly freshmen," he said. "Take a look at that left tackle, 6-6, 260 pounds and from North Carolina. Murray wanted him real bad." He meant Murray Warmath. "But we had something going for us. Before we went to the Rose Bowl, we brought in some of the best high school prospects. They watched our last scrimmage here, ate at our training table, met our players then followed our Rose Bowl game. Naturally, their hearts were with Purdue by that time. We got a great freshmen class."

MOLLENKOPF PRAISED

WHEN MOLLENKOPF TURNED AWAY to talk with one of his players, president Hovde said, "Jack is a great coach. I don't know another coach who is so hard to beat. I suppose Notre Dame should be quite a favorite with that superb personnel, but Jack will let them know they've been in a football game. He doesn't concede anything to Notre Dame, and neither do I."

When Notre Dame defeated Purdue 26-14 last year, the sophomore passing combination, Terry Hanratty to Jim Seymour, was a complete surprise.

The quality is still there, but now the element of surprise is lost.

Against this threat, Purdue will send a gifted sophomore passer and three excellent receivers, Beirne, Keyes and Marion Griffin, all fast and able.

Purdue's running backs, Perry Williams and Bob Baltzell, are powerful.

Yes, Notre Dame is the favorite but Purdue is not without formidable weapons.

games. But we can run, too."

However, Park moved 30 yards in the third quarter without running or passing. Behind 7-0, Kennedy kicked off to begin the second half. The Park runner was tackled at his 35, but a roughing penalty against Kennedy sent the Orioles to the 50.

Kennedy coach Sonny Carlson bolted from the sidelines to protest the call and Kennedy was assessed another 15 yards on a "technical". In seven plays Park scored, Cadwell passing five yards to Steve Marcus.

The conversion try was blocked. Park led 13-0.

Kennedy scored in the fourth quarter, moving 82 yards to the touchdown. Clausen scored on a one-yard plunge.

Kennedy is 2-1-1 for the season, and Park 2-2.

Grayling to Open for Duck Hunting

The Grayling Marsh wildlife management area near McGregor, Minn., will be open for hunting when duck season begins next Saturday.

Last spring, the area's 500-acre pool was lost when rain washed out a dike. The break has been repaired and 4,000 feet of dike raised and widened.

Game manager Henry Wulf reported that brood production of mallard and teal was excellent there this year.
