Tigers Split; Bosox Top Twins 6-4

Detroit, Angels Split 5-0, 8-6

DETROIT, Mich. — (AP) — Jim Fregosi's two-run single in the eighth inning climaxed a six-run explosion that carried the California Angels past Detroit 8-6 in the second game of a doubleheader Saturday and backed the Tigers into a dark corner in the frantic American League pennant race.

Detroit won the first game 5-0 on Mickey Lolich's three-hitter, but California's stunning comeback victory in the nightcap dropped the Tigers one-half game behind both Minnesota and Boston going into the final day of the regular season.

THE TIGERS now must sweep today's doubleheader against the giant-killing Angels to gain a tie for the flag with either the Twins or Red Sox, who meet at Boston today in a single game. The Red Sox beat Minnesota 6-4 yesterday, leaving each club with a 91-70 mark and the Tigers at 90-70.

The Tigers were breezing along with a 6-2 lead in the nightcap when Fregosi touched off the eighth inning burst with a single off Fred Lasher, who had replaced 22-game winner Earl Wilson in the sixth.

Lasher walked Jimmie Hall and was clipped for run-scoring singles by Don Mincher and Rick Reichardt before giving way to Hank Aguirre. The Veteran southpaw got pinch hitter Bubba Morton to tap back to the mound, but threw to first base for the first out as Mincher scored the third run in the inning.

AGUIRRE THEN walked Bob Rodgers and was lifted for Fred Gladding. After Bobby Knoop singled off Gladding's glove to fill the bases, John Hiller became the Tigers' fourth pitcher in the inning and Tom Satriano greeted him with a run-scoring single, tying it 6-6.

Hiller fanned pinch hitter Bob Taylor for the second out, but Fregosi then lined a single to right center for the winning runs.

The Tigers scored three runs in the first inning. Dick McAuliffe singled and Angels starter Jack Hamilton walked Jerry Lumpe, Willie Horton and Ed Mathews, forcing in one run. Curt Simmons came in and hit Jim Northrup with a pitch to let in a second run and Bill Freehan brought home the third with a sacrifice fly.

Boston dugout welcomed Carl Yastrzemski after seventh inning home run

Scott, Yaz Power Boston's Flag Bid

BOSTON, Mass. — The home-run hitting of George Scott and Carl Yastrzemski carried the American League pennant fight down to the final day as Boston defeated the Twins 6-4 Saturday before 32,909 Red Sox partisans.

The outcome left Minnesota and Boston tied with 90-70 records going into today's finale in Beantown.

The Detroit Tigers split a doubleheader with California, taking the first game 5-0 but losing the nightcap 8-6. The Tigers must sweep their doubleheader with the Angels today to tie with the winner of the Twins-Boston game for the American League pennant.

Scott, a powerful right-handed swinger, broke a 2-2 tie with a homer off right-handed relief pitcher Ron Kline in Boston's sixth inning.

Then Yastrzemski hit a three-run homer into the right-field bullpen in the seventh for the Red Sox' 6-2 margin. And sweet-swinging Carl, shooting for the triple crown, also became the most prolific one - season, left - handed, home-run hitter in Boston history, eclipsing the 43 hit by Ted Williams in 1949. Right-handed Jimmy Foxx once hit 50 for Boston.

Harmon Killebrew of the Twins tied Yaz for A.L. home-run lead with his 44th in the ninth, scoring Cesar Tovar ahead of him for the 6-4 final score.

But it was too late for the Twins, who spent a bungling day when they could have clinched at least a tie for the title.

The Twins got away on top, scoring a run in the first inning off right-handed Jose Santiago. Zoilo Versalles opened with a single. Tovar flied out, Killebrew walked and Tony Oliva lined a single to center for Versalles' run.

The Twins' misery really started in the third inning when starter Jim Kaat popped a bunt in his eleven to striking out Santiago. Jim had to leave with a 2-0 count on the next batter, Mike Andrews.

Twins-Red Sox Winner Assured of Pennant Tie

The winner of the Twins-Red Sox game at Boston today will be assured of at least a tie for the American League pennant.

One loss by Detroit in its doubleheader with California would eliminate the Tigers.

A sweep by the Tigers would force a playoff between the Tigers and the winner of the Minnesota-Boston game.

Purdue Edges Irish 28-21 in Passing Battle

By DICK CULLUM
Minneapolis Tribune Staff Writer

LAFAYETTE, Ind.—Two great football teams played catch-up football before 62,179 fans in Ross-Ade Stadium Saturday.

The result was a well-earned victory for Purdue's Boilermakers, 28-21.

This was a war between two tremendous lines. Neither could be penetrated. Both sides soon learned that ground attacks were futile and went to the air.

Such air warfare has seldom been seen in a game between teams proud of their power; but the bombardment from both sides was met by versatile defenses from both sides.

It got down, in the end, to a match of skill and wits between two quarterbacks, Notre Dame's famed Terry Hanratty, who threw 63 passes, and Purdue's calm, young sophomore, Mike Phipps.

The victory went to the youngster. True, he completed fewer passes, but he made fewer mistakes.

He chose to go down with the ball or throw it safely out of anyone's reach when receivers were not open.

He did not pass into a single interception, whereas Purdue's alert defense intercepted four of Hanratty's passes and that created the margin of victory.

Boilermaker coach Jack Mollenkopf lauded his defensive line and team determination after the battle, when he labeled the victory "awfully sweet."

No. 4 UCLA Gallops to 51-23 Win

SPOKANE, Wash. — (AP)— Fourth-ranked UCLA battered Washington State 51-23 in a Pacific-8 football game Saturday.

WSU jolted the UCLA by scoring after the first 11 plays of the game but failed to come to life again until the fourth quarter when the Cougars scored 16 points against Bruin reserves.

A crowd of 24,200 watched as quarterback Gary Beban directed the Bruins to two first-quarter scores, one on a 49-yard pass play to end Dave Nuttall.

Greg Jones scored in the first and third quarters on plunges of three and nine yards and Beban scored in the third on a one-yard sneak.

UCLA's side-angle place kicker, Zenon Andrusyshyn, tied the school's field goal record with two, one for 22 yards (in the first quarter)

OFFENSE SPUTTERS AGAIN

Nebraska Beats 'U' 7-0

By JOHN WIEBUSCH
Minneapolis Tribune Staff Writer

LINCOLN, Neb. — Minnesota's offense sputtered and stalled for a second consecutive week Saturday and the Gophers became the 20th consecutive team to lose a football game in the University of Nebraska's Memorial Stadium.

The Gophers played the Huskers to a scoreless standoff for two quarters before Nebraska's superior manpower began to exert itself. The result was a convincing 7-0 Husker victory.

Minnesota's offensive headaches were obvious in a season-opening victory over Utah. The Gophers had only one sustained drive that day.

The quality of competition was better yesterday, but the offense's effort was almost totally futile.

Minnesota entered Nebraska's side of the field only three times. Its only serious thrust through the Husker resistance ended when Bob Stein's field goal attempt in the second quarter veered to the left.

Minnesota's net yardage rushing was an anemic three yards.

Gopher coach Murray Warmath stayed with junior quarterback Ray Stephens for three quarters before going to his bench for Phil Hagen. But the sophomore whose magic produced the victory over Utah could not overcome the Huskers.

Nebraska showed its poise and heralded speed only occasionally. The Huskers are a good team, but not a great one . . . and coach Bob Devaney admits that.

The Big Eight team showed its might often yesterday — 11 of its 15 series began or ended in Minnesota territory — and the Huskers' speed, mainly in the form of running backs Dick Davis and Joe Orduna, was telling.

The game's only touchdown reversed a brief tend of events that seemed to favor Minnesota.

The Gophers' initial series of the second half was silenced on the Nebraska 40 and Dave Baldridge, a superb punter again, kicked the ball to a standstill on the Nebraska six.

Davis and Ben Gregory combined for six yards and Nebraska was faced with third-and-four from the 12. Nebraska punter Dana Stephenson entered the game at this point; quarterback Frank Patrick and Gregory did not leave, however.

Minnesota dropped back a single safety, but Nebraska had no intention of punting.

Patrick shoveled the ball to Gregory and the senior tailback lanced off right tackle for seven yards and a first down on the 19.

Patrick, a 6-foot-2 sophomore, threw 11 yards to split end Dennis Richnafsky, then picked up two more when he found his receivers covered.

Patrick and Richnafsky collaborated again on the next play, but Richnafsky

WITH A BART STARR SYNDROME

Vikes Tackle Sayers, Bears

By MERRILL SWANSON
Minneapolis Tribune Staff Writer

The Minnesota Vikings have the Bart Starr syndrome.

The Green Bay quarterback had only three passes intercepted in 1966; this year, in two games, he has had nine picked off.

The Vikings are operating in about the same kind bad fortune.

"He's the same football player and the Packers are the same team," Viking coach Bud Grant pointed out. "All of a sudden all manner of things happen—like the ball bounces off the helmet of a man on the ground for one interception.

"That's why football is so exasperating and so entertaining."

Right now football must be somewhat exasperating for Grant.

His Vikings rank 0-2 in the National Football League going into today's 1:30 p.m. game against Chicago at Metropolitan Stadium. Last week, for example, a possible Viking touchdown pass hit the goal post; a Los Angeles punt hit on the one-yard line and bounced straight up to be downed by a Ram player.

Nobody claims the elimination of these two occurences—and other similar misfortunes — would have reversed the 38-3 score. But it might have given the Vikings the feeling they were not playing under some sort of a bad sign.

This week, however, the Vikings have had a spirited and jovial week of practice. Their morale has been excellent, and Grant is hoping that the end of their ill luck is near.

"I don't mean that we
