Wells Manning Easley

Brewers

"When you have a well-developed personality like Gorman and have an established relationship, it's like having a very close relative, as opposed to a second or third cousin.

"You're talking about a special individual," he said. "He will be thought of as a Brewer forever. He may play for five more clubs, but he'll always be thought of as a Brewer, the same way Bob Gibson was a full-blooded St. Louis Cardinal. Just like Lou Brock will always be thought of as a St. Louis Cardinal, not a Chicago Cub."

"It's a sad day for me, even though I know Manning will help us," Manager Harvey Kuenn said. "I've been very close to Gorman since 1971. There's an old saying that it's part of the game," he said. "But it's not as easy. It's like losing a relative," he said.
