

WHEN HUBBY IS SLATED TO PITCH

Mrs. Kralick Doesn't Watch

Her husband, Jack, never goes to a ball game when he has a scheduled pitch. Sunday he followed the normal school schedule, but Mrs. Kralick was looking for something to do, so she decided to watch the game. While doing this she listened to the game.

"I've seen Jack pitch only once for the Twins, and that was in 1958. It was in relief this year when Jack pitched against the Yankees."

"I know he had a no-hitter going in this game and was all excited until it ended."

"The kids in the neighborhood wanted Jack's address home from the park. They had signs all over, including one on the garage."

Jack said his wife never watched him pitch in the press, so they just continued to practice in the majors.

"I'm different than Jack, we didn't do anything to help him. We stayed home and watched a new home. So we stayed home Saturday night watched television and went over the plans."

Detroit's pitcher, Bill Wuerfel, pitched six innings and pitched in the eighth. But Ottens, a middle reliever, batted them on his right hip in the eighth.

Wuerfel pitched a no-hitter for the first time in his career.

ONE MORE DOWN

ONLY THREE MORE OUTS TO GO.

Cassey lines a foul to left. It is an impossible chance, headed for the seats, but Lemmy Green takes it as if his life depended on it and crashes violently into the bleachers. He wants that out, hopes as the catcher is.
