Royals pull even; Dodgers pull ahead

Recharged Kansas City wins 10-4

By James Tate New York Times Service

Kansas City, Mo. Kansas City has more frustration than hope and much more confidence...

In fact, the Royals put so many hits together in the second inning that their bats cracked the ceiling...

The attack was swift and sudden. On an at-bat, the ball bounced back after two swings and down...

With the series tied at one game apiece, Yankee Manager Bill Leuker selected Ron Fagnano to catch...

No one — not even Royal Manager "Whitey" Herzog — expected his team to rebound with such force...

And sure enough, there was Larry Cory, scorching across the field as centerfielder as any foreign Yankee...

Later, however, he had trouble coping with the recharged Yankees...

The Yankees, meanwhile, seemed to have a new star in the making...

For the first six innings it didn't matter in which direction they were hitting.

TV-radio sponsor reexamining Twins pact

Harold Greenwood Jr., president of Midwest Federal Savings & Loan Association, which holds broadcast-airvertising rights to Minnesota Twins games on radio and television, expressed disappointment Wednesday at the remarks of Twins President Carlton Griffith at a meeting of the Waunakee Club last Thursday.

In examining closely any further relationship with the Twins, he added that Midwest Federal is not in any way responsible for the personal attitudes of Griffith, who apologized for his remarks Tuesday.

The Midwest Federal-Twins radio-television contract, which pays the Twins more than $1 million annually, expires after the 1979 season, said Griffith said.

Griffith said the civic club in Waunakee that sponsored the Twins in Waunakee after finding out that there were only 15,000 fans in the area. He said blacks don't go to baseball games.
