Including No 'Rainout' Turning Point? L.A. Said There Were 3

Members of the Los Angeles Angels have not reached a decision on whether to play a third game last night at the Minnesota Twins.

The first came when Bill Allison made a diving catch to rob Jim Lefebvre of at least a double in the fifth inning.

"It was on his first and second strikes," said Allison. "I caught the ball. I would have been out of the game if I hadn't."

The players just sat on the field for a while, waiting to see if there would be rain. They were not sure what to do. They were not sure if they would be playing a third game.

"I think we will play," said Allison. "I think we will play. I think we will play."

He said he would play. He said he would play. He said he would play.

Calvin's No. 2 Thrill: Beating L.A. Aces
