NEW YORK, N.Y. — Followed by Kirkland's triple, Cleveland smashed 11 runs and Max Alvar's single added homers, two triples and two doubles Thursday to give the Indians a 7-4 victory over John Blanchard's grand slam homer and walking the first-place New York Yankees 7-4.

When Blanchard hit his "slam" in the sixth, the Indians already had piled up a 6-0 lead off Ralph Terry. The Francisco and Fred Whitfield level off on Terry. Twins Reassert Right to Marks Made Long Ago

WHEN PUBLIC RELATIONS MEN REB CHIN WHITEHEAD'S heated controversy in support of respective clients it is time the Twins get out from under the shadow of the past.

Dick Cullum

Early this week Hawkins demanded that the Twins stop using club records set in Washington, claiming that they were the property of the Senators.

As a bloodline continuation of the old Senators, the Twins are entitled to use the records of the Senators of Clark and Calvin Griffiths who own every right to compare the performance of the Killbuckers and Fancuffs of today with the Killbuckers and Fancuffs of 1909, and the Walter Johnsons and Joe Crotons and Mickey Vernon of before. This is not an attempt to rob the tradition of Washington on Minnesota. These are statistics—numbers—are using as comparisons with the past.

THE EVIDENCE PRODUCED
A HAWKINS' COUNTERPART WITH THE NEW SENATORS, Bert Reynolds, is quoted in your columns 71 is time the Twins get out from under the shadow of the past.

I call your attention to the 1961 Yearbook and Publicity-TV Guide of the new Senators, published by Hawkins. On the cover of both appears the slogan "A Twin to Be Proud of." A reference to "Hawkins' Seniors" is made inside both publications in a Hawkins-authored preface titled "A Chronology of the New Senators." Now it is time to ask the question: "Who are the new Senators?"

THEY WANT BIG TRAIN
I WASHINGTON TRY TO PUT OUR MOUTH THE CLAIM that by referring to Walter Johnson's great records as "our press guide, the Big Train once pitched for a Twin in 1909."

What we do claim is that Johnson and the other great players for BBW clubs before it moved to Minnesota—the Griffith club.

There is no precedent for the use of club records. When the St. Louis Browns moved to Baltimore, the new Orioles used the Browns records for a year, then dropped them.

On the other hand, in the 1963 National League Green Book, Mel Ott is still listed as the all-time home run king for the Giants, although he never pitched a major league game in San Francisco; Babe Herman is listed as the all-time slugging champion for the Dodgers, although he never set foot as a player inside Chavez Ravine; and Rabbit Maravich is listed as the all-time tripler king for the Braves, although he never lived to see the erection of County Stadium in Milwaukee.

In summation, let us say that the Twins do not believe the new Senators use of our old records, nor shall we attempt to dissuade their use by Hawkins and Co. We simply suggest that they not try to tell us we can't use 'em.

Wilson and Huff? They've Knocked Heads Before

By JIM KLOBUCHAR
MINNEAPOLIS (UPI)—Tom Wilson insists he has not had a better success in the NFL than the September episode of a year ago when he tumbled 80 yards in 15 carries against the New York Giants.

At the time he was a benchwarmer of Jimmy Brown with the Cleveland Browns. "Well, you know what happens when they start getting behind," Wilson said. "I start giving the ball to Jimmy Brown. Jimmy's a great back but he can't play the game himself and I doubt that he wants to. Anyhow, after a couple of games I end up with a rub. I figure Dick Motta's a better man to run the team than I'm running."

The logic in this seems reasonable. Somewhere along the line Wilson's communications must have broken down. He had trouble convincing the Browns for years and he had no better success in the NFL than the September episode of a year ago when he tumbled 80 yards in 15 carries against the New York Giants.

TOM WILSON BOUND FOR VIKINGS' MFT DEBUT

"I'm happier when I'm running with the ball"

Wilson's communications must have broken down. He had trouble convincing the Browns for years and he had no better success in the NFL than the September episode of a year ago when he tumbled 80 yards in 15 carries against the New York Giants.

"I mean, I've played against these fellows 11 times or so," Wilson said. "Now you take Jim Kirkpatrick, one of their ends. He's one of those wild men, a pretty hard man to play. Andy Robustelli on the other end is getting kind of old but still a tough guy and a tremendous pass blocker. I figure Dick Motta's a better man to run the team than I'm running."

"I mean Huff is a really good middle linebacker, not quite ahead of Joe Schmidt of the Lions, but not behind him. Nobody's ahead of Joe Schmidt for most of his career. He's a pretty hard runner for most of his career. He's a pretty hard runner for most of his career. He's a pretty hard runner for most of his career."
